Board Buys Site

At tonight's adjourned meeting, the Carmel Unified School District Board will pass a resolution of acceptance to exercise an option to purchase 45 acres of Hatton Ranch, across from Rancho Rio Vista on the Carmel Valley Road, for a future high school site.

This property adjoins the present 10-acre site the district already owns.

Price will be $3000 an acre and the purchase is to be made at a rate of 4.5 acres a year over a 10 year period, with option to buy in larger units at any one time.

The site has been recommended by the state division of school planning.

Superintendent Stuart Mitchell, who served with Board Chairman Gordon Campbell, on the site purchase committee told the Pine Cone this morning: "The Hattons have turned down previous, better offers. They preferred that the land be used for school purposes. This is a public service on their part."

J. O. Handley assisted the site purchase committee in investigating various lands and making tentative negotiations. Two other sites were under consideration, one across the river that would require bridge construction for access, and a hill site farther up the valley that would require expensive grading and road building, and was unpopular with the state division of school planning.

The Hatton site includes part of the "artichoke area", but this low area is 20 feet above flood level, Mr. Mitchell points out; and it will be used for athletic fields, while the buildings will be placed on high ground near the road.

City Treasurer Resigns Job After 15 Years In Office

City Treasurer Harry C. Hilbert submitted his resignation to the city council last night asking to be released from his duties as soon as the council appoints his successor or by August 4.

"I find that the press of personal business now requires I devote all my energy to it," he said in his letter of resignation. Mr. Hilbert recently purchased the former Konrad's Creamery on Ocean Avenue, now known as Hilbert's Creamery.

For over 15 years Harry Hilbert has been constitutional custodian of all city funds. He was responsible for the retirement of city bonds and payment of interest on the bonds. He also had charge of city securities (110 per cent of all city cash deposited in the bank) and had constantly to check that the value of these securities, provided by the bank, corresponded to the value of deposited city funds. City Treasurer Hilbert was also the sole independent check on the accounting of City Clerk Lar-

Mark And Barbara Mills Combine Their Talents For A Home-Made Home

BY RAYLYN PENNEY

In terms of an old undergraduate rouser, you "take a leg from some old table, the arm from some old chair, and the neck from some old bottle."

Mark and Barbara Mills have their own version. They took some serpentine boulders that had slid down onto Highway 1 at Big Sur, some floor joists from the Del Monte Hotel servants' buildings which were pulled down about three years ago, and some timbers from the aged San Rafael Bridge on Highway 101 at the time the original wood trestle structure was being torn down in favor of steel construction.

End result in the college ditty was supposed to be a lovable dummy. End result for Mark and Barbara is going to be, when all the work is over, a contemporary, low-budget home on a knoll in Monterey County just outside the east boundary of the Carmel High School campus.

The Big Sur boulders have been thoughtfully positioned in cast masonry which forms several walls and the fireplace of the circular post-and-cantilever construction.

Entrance to this truly unusual home is gained by a frosted glass door with a mail slot, which once closed on a business office. Much of the hardware is brass, a wind-fall from a recent residence demolition job of the type that attracts the Mills couple.

Mark, whose business is designing houses, says he designed this one for "the toughest client I ever had—my wife."

"We pack-ratted for almost a year," Barbara says. "We've been

Board Opens Bids Tonight For River School Classrooms

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock an opening-the-bids-for-construction-at-River-School surprise party will be held at the Carmel High School library, the second such event this week.

Tuesday night's gala turned out splendidly when contract for 11 high school classrooms, a toilet building, and connecting corridors was awarded to Lloyd Hamilton of Watsonville. His bid of $185,988 is $85,078 under architect's estimate of $271,066. Neither the bid nor estimate include shake roof. Since the $800,000 recently passed bond issue was based on architect's estimate of cost of construction, the lower-than-hoped-for high school contract gives the board considerable margin in case tonight's bids for ten classrooms at River go over estimate of $155,300.

The board has not yet called for bids on three classrooms at Tularcitos (estimate $42,530) nor for the furniture and equipment that will be needed for the new school rooms.

Seven contractors bid on the high school job Tuesday night: Henry Jewell, Jr., $186,405, nearest to Hamilton's low of $185,988; Ekelin and Small, $190,000; H. C. Geyer, $191,700; G. W. Davis, $192,400; Tombleson and Huck, $194,966; J. B. Fratessa, $195,380.

Contract requires Hamilton to complete the job by December 15. Failure to do so invokes a penalty of $50 a day.

City Council Balks At Hurry-Up Act On Water District

Mayor John Chitwood proposed last night that the Carmel City Council attempt to apply the brakes on a run-away plan to put the proposal for a Monterey Peninsula Water District on the November general election ballot. To do that, legal proceedings would have to start June 23.

"I think this is too hasty. We need more information. All we

Whitaker Protests, Norberg Comes Up With More Ideas

At last night's council meeting, former City Councilman Francis Whitaker protested the continued use of the Mission and First street city dump site now that the refuse has reached street level. The street department's dumping operations there are creating an unsightly condition, the residents nearby have long objected, and several pines are being killed, he said.

Mayor John Chitwood said he doubted that Carmel citizens would welcome a "15-cent raise in taxes for an eleven mile haul" to the Peninsula dump. "Or maybe we should spend $27,000 for a trash chopper," he added, in that tone of voice that announced that in his opinion we should do no such thing.

Mr. Whitaker observed that the city was showing a fine example to the citizens, dumping trash in the residence district and destroying pines. The city is violating its own zoning ordinance and probably violating the sanitary code. He thought the citizens would support a reasonable solution to the street department's dumping problem; anyway, he meant to find out.

New Councilman Gunnar Norberg came up with several original and not very popular ideas: He wants to find a way of reducing casual tourist parking on Scenic Drive, and maybe get some revenue out of the people who come for the day, litter up the beach, create traffic and parking probhave to go on is this," he said, displaying the Stone and Youngberg Preliminary Financial Report. "It is full of if's, but's and or's. If anybody asked me if it would be better for us to have a water district, I'd have to say, 'I don't know'."

He said that the water committee should get some independent, disinterested agency to analyze the Stone and Youngberg report.

They (the other Peninsula councils and the water district committee) appear to have forgotten that there were to be separate council studies. At least the county engineer should be asked to look into it, he added.

Councilman Everett May pointed out that there are 14 types of government structures for water districts; the committee has concentrated on only two. "There has not been sufficient consideration of the other 12."

City Attorney John Morse, who has been representing Carmel at the Peninsula city attorneys' meetings on the water district, said that there is no way of limiting the taxation powers of the proposed district. There are legal tax limits for cities and school districts, but apparently not for this.

To the question, "Could Carmel pull out at this point?" Mr. Morse suggested that the council members attend the water district committee meeting scheduled for Friday and try to "find friends" for a slow down policy among councilmen of the other cities.

Pikers! No Mortgage Burning Party For Corporation Yard

The council wrote a check for $30,000 to M. J. Murphy last night, and the city now owns its corporation yard on Junipero and Fourth Streets, all ten lots.

This completes a lease-purchase program the council initiated two years ago, which involved the city's buying the property lot by lot as money was available and paying rent for the use of the unpurchased portion. Since July 1957 the city has owned five lots and paid $150 a month rent.

Total cost of the property is $65,000.

Only $14,000 was budgeted last July for this final payment of $30,000 and the council thought then it might have to dip into the reserve fund, then increase next year's taxes to repay the reserve, but enough has been picked up in undistributed surplus to make up the difference. Last night's final purchase is a month ahead of schedule, so that $150 in rent has been saved. It was suggested that this would buy enough hot dogs for a public mortgage burning wiener roast at the corporation yard on July 4 but the council was not interested.

Truncated Plan, Chain Stores, Skid Row, Etc.

Councilman Everett May at last night's council meeting, put on a little pressure for the council to get on with the planning commission's truncated version of the Livingston Master Plan. "They need it for authority to speak before the county planning commission," he urged. "And they've taken out everything controversial. If we had a public hearing we could get citizen reaction."

The council protested that they hadn't studied it but finally agreed to call a public hearing for July 1, 8:00 o'clock in city hall.

Council authorized expenditure of up to $300 from the Sea Wall Fund to extend the seawall 40 feet at Scenic and Tenth; listened to audience discussion of chain store restriction, which everybody seemed to want; to the mild despair of City Attorney John Morse, who said, "If anybody knows how it can be done legally, I'd certainly like to hear from them," adding that he would continue with his research. He also took a dark view on the council's being able to produce a valid protest against the transfer of an on-sale liquor license from out of town to the

PADRES CLIP KING CITY AND PACIFIC GROVE TO SHARE LEAGUE TITLE

Carmel High's varsity baseball team posted two big wins in the last two outings to finish in a deadlock with Hollister for the league title. The Padres clipped King City, 6 to 0, as Tim O'Shea threw a one-hitter at the Mustangs and came back Monday afternoon to shell the Pacific Grove Breakers, 7 to 2. O'Shea also pitched the win over Pacific Grove, giving up three hits over the seven inning route.

In defeating King City, the Padres avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of the Blue & White. The Mustangs had given Carmel a 7-1 pasting at the King City diamond in a first round game and nearly eliminated the Padres from serious title consideration. However, in the return game at Carmel's home field, the local preps made quick work of the visitors as they picked up three runs in the third heat and two more in the fourth to provide O'Shea with enough cushion. Joe Mason was the top hitter for the Padres in the King City win, connecting for two singles in two official trips to the plate.

The title-bound Carmel nine got off to a good start against arch-rival Pacific Grove, picking up three tallies in the first inning on three and back to back singles by Bud Conroy and Ron Faia. The Breakers made a run at the Padres in the bottom of the first, scoring runs on a pair of infield miscues and two hits. After a shaky start in the first frame, O'Shea settled down the rest of the way and pitched steady ball, striking out 15 swingers, allowing one more hit, giving up five free passes. Ron Faia and Gil Altamirano swung the big sticks for the Padres, both getting a pair of singles.

Eight Carmel High seniors finished their prep baseball careers in the Pacific Grove game. Donning the Red & Gray spangles for the last time were Joe Mason, Tim O'Shea, Gil Altamirano, Andy Gray, Pete Osborne, Neil Giarratana, Mal Burdis, and Ted Bales-treri. Nine lettermen will return to form the nucleus for next year's baseball squad.

FOUR PADRES ON CCAL ALL-STAR TEAM

At a meeting of CCAL coaches and sportswriters in Gonzales Monday night, four Carmel High baseball players were honored with spots on the mythical All-League team and one Padre received honorable mention for the squad. Tim O'Shea, with an 8-0 league pitching record, was a unanimous choice as the top pitcher in the league. Tim had an earned run average of .16 for all league games and averaged 13 strikeouts for all the seven-inning games. Joe Mason, Tim's battery mate, was selected for one of the catcher's spots along with Joe Edison from Pacific Grove. Ronnie Faia won the shortstop position after a close race with Hollister's Phil Paz and Pacific Grove's Steve Perkins. Big edge enjoyed by Faia was his league-leading 465 batting average. Ron is only a sophomore so Carmel's shortstop problem appears to be solved for the next two years. Dale Dawson garnered one of the outfield spots on the strength of a 345 batting average, a shotgun arm, and a top judge of a fly ball. Andy Gray, honorable mention for the all-league but lost out to Joe Palacio (Gonzales) who sported a 360 batting average for the season.

Rounding out the all-star squad were Hollister's Dave Grow, Ameil Boscaccio, and Phil Paz, Charles Duncan and Willie Whittman from Gonzales, Joe Ciraulo from Live Oak, and Tom Campbell from King City.

BABE RUTH LEAGUE

Stellar relief pitching by Forrest Cornwall gave the Carmel team its first win of the season in the Monterey Peninsula Babe Ruth League. Behind 5-1 in the last of the 6th inning, the Carmel team rallied to tie the score and then went on to win in the seventh inning by the score of 7-6. The Baldwin Pianos defeated Carmel in the opening game, 9-3. This week's action finds Carmel traveling to El Estero to meet the Monterey Merchants, and Larry Frazier is scheduled to hurl for the locals.

CIRCLING THE BASES

Manager Bill Rosenkranz led his Boys Town Little Leaguers to a 7-1 first half record which was good enough to snare the first half title. Boys Town won the big one Tuesday night, blanking defending-champion San Carlos Agency to finish one game in front of the realtors. Boys Town has power to burn with such dangerous sluggers as Ron Jella, Tony Wolff, and David Rosenkranz taking their cuts for the first half champs. Jack Miller's San Carlos Agency crew finished in the runner-up spot for the first half with Art Carpenter's Pilot aggregation in third place. One of Carmel High's varsity baseball players will soon be playing his baseball for the United States Air Academy. Craig Chapman, former Padre (Continued on Page Thirteen)

Mark And Barbara Mills Combine Their Talents For Home-Made Home

in every junk yard in Oakland and San Francisco, and gone through almost every pile of discarded stuff on the Peninsula."

"Most of these ideas never would have occurred to me if it hadn't been for Barbara," Mark says. "I used to follow her to junk yards because she collected colored glass. I had to occupy myself while I waited, and I kept getting these plans. Now we both collect practically everything."

Actually the Mills house, even with its castellated windows, even with its walls of rough cedar which give the interior the delicate, nostalgic aroma of a hope chest, is easily secondary in interest to the owners themselves.

Barbara, who is a pretty gamin looking at you and a perfect St. Joan when her eyes are downcast, is a writer who, last autumn, published her first book and this spring is on her first short stories.

Mark, Arizona-born, somehow manages to combine his role as young-professional-on-his-way-up with some of the demeanor and perspicacity of a desert pioneer.

Barbara Jenkins Mills is our own. Born in Sacramento, she spent almost all her girlhood summers in her family's summer home here. She is the daughter of Matthew Jenkins of Pebble Beach and Louisa Jenkins, Big Sur artist.

She attended the University of California and holds a degree in philosophy from St. Mary's College of Notre Dame, Indiana. Barbara was living at Big Sur a little over four years ago when she met Mark.

Her mother did the illustration and Barbara the text for the now popular book, The Art of Making Mosaics, (published in October, 1957, by Van Nostrand). The work is now in its second edition and may be partly responsible for the spectacular increase in interest in mosaic work as a pastime and avocation.

Mark is a native of Jerome, Arizona, which is an abandoned copper mining community built almost vertically on the Verde Valley side of Mingus Mountain, where every year many of the buildings slide down hill a few more inches.

A son and nephew of miners and mine owners, Mark deviated from the family calling to take architectural engineering at the University of Colorado and to study four years with Frank Lloyd Wright.

He worked with a San Francisco architect before coming to Carmel in 1954 and has designed homes from the Napa Valley to San Diego.

Mark does his drawing mostly at night. Barbara does most of her writing in the daytime. At the rear of their property is a stone studio with a fireplace, the first structure the couple built together, and if the creativity ever begins to conflict in their home, one of them will move his professional quarters to the studio.

About his work, Mark says, "A standard house is easy to understand. It's just bones, with skin around it. The real challenge for me is unconventional handling of unconventional materials."

About hers, Barbara says, "The urge-and-ability to create seem to spring from one's deepest feelings and one's earliest environment. A real artist is incapable of molding something noncommittal. Intent and meaning are more important to me than skill, which can usually be acquired later."

Meanwhile, they work together on their home which looks to an outsider as if it's about finished and seems very livable.

Will they every build another house together? "Perhaps." They both say it was through building the house that they really got to know each other well.

Mrs. Menneken Is New President Of Carmel Woman's Club

The mortgage on the clubhouse of the Carmel Woman's Club was burned last Monday by Mrs. Barbara Murphy, retiring president, and Mrs. L. C. Miller, chairman of rummage sales which contributed greatly to liquidating the debt. The ceremony followed a potluck luncheon and the final meeting of the club year at which reports of retiring officers and committee chairmen were given.

All past presidents had been invited to attend. Those present were Mrs. John Abernethy, Mrs. Alton Walker, Mrs. Verne Skillman, Mrs. Annie Vaughn and Dr. Zoe Johnston. Mrs. H. S. Upjohn, who did much to make the building of the clubhouse possible, was introduced and honored.

The retiring president read a history of the club up to 1946, and many of its interesting early day activities were brought to light. The club made a contribution of trees and shrubs to the plaza of the Golden Gate Bridge. It supplied top soil, plants and a bird bath to the Harrison Memorial Library, and cared for the garden the first year. It planted shrubs on Casa-

Carmel Portraits . . .

By DAISY BOSTICK

Ralph Castagna first came over the Carmel-Monterey Hill in 1932 which should certainly qualify him to belong to the Society of Carmel Old-Timers. It was a case of a young man's dream—the desire for country living—away from the humdrum of city life—a place to raise a family. So he cheerfully left the Fairmont Hotel Pharmacy in San Francisco and came here to work in the Carmel Drug Store. Peter and Virginia Burke were the owners and eventually when Peter was obliged to go to Arizona for his health, Castagna was the logical person to take over.

Much has happened since that day when Ralph came over the hill. His dreams came true. He got him a wife — Dorothy. They have two fine children, Susan and David, both of whom are now attending the University of California. He is now the manager and partner in the concern for which he has worked so long and faithfully. He has many friends. His own home. And he loves to talk of the old days.

We had a hilarious time recalling many of the incidents that happened way-back-when. He still has a vivid mental picture of Delos Curtis in his white chef's cap and apron sitting snoring on a bench on the sidewalk outside of his candy store; of Town Marshal Gus Englund, and his horse, ambling through the village looking for criminals and chiding strangers about throwing egg-shells in the bushes. And how Gus went into a rage when he caught an innocent tourist depositing hot ashes on a mound of dry pine needles.

Ralph was on affectionate terms with our Town Dog, Pal, who called on him daily and held out a hairy paw to shake hands. And when Pal would get into the pound for having lost his collar and license, Ralph would contribute liberally to the fund subscribed to pay Pal's fine and get his release. I suspect that at times Ralph may have been the one who passed the hat but if he was, he is now too modest to admit it.

At that time Pine Inn stood alone and aloof and the garden surrounding it made a lasting impression on Ralph. And he relates how John Jordan, the owner, read Shakespeare in the lobby while strangers waited at the desk to get service. All of which impressed the young Ralph with the literary aspirations of the village which he had chosen for his permanent home. He wasn't even dismayed when on one occasion John put his book aside and while the would-be-guest was registering, John began reciting HAMLET'S SOLILOQUY. And that the prospective guest not knowing what to make of it all, took it to be evidence of a disordered mind and fled in panic.

There were days when Ralph fished for steelhead salmon at the Carmel River mouth—and caught them—and joined the parade of successful fishermen on the main street, each lugging his big prize. According to the best of his recollection HIS salmon was at least twenty feet long. But the years between then and now are many and a mistake of a couple of feet can be forgiven. But that's what the man told me.

Never-to-be-forgotten in Ralph's calendar is the time of Aimee Semple McPherson's short sojourn in Carmel. And how, for many long months after her departure beady-eyed tourists flocked into the Drug Store to ask: "Where is the art colony?" And "How do I get to Aimee's shack?" Then on being told "the art colony is all over the place" and advising the inquirer to go out to Highlands Inn and get further information from Senator Tickle, the bewildered tourist would buy a postage stamp and leave. Ralph took it all in his stride.

Although Ralph Castagna claims never to have been a "joiner" we have found that he has several credits. He is Past President of the Monterey Rotary Club, Member of the Board of Directors of the Carmel Business Association. Prominent in Boy Scout work, Community Chest and Red Cross. And he probably would have landed the Mayor's job if he hadn't built his home just outside the city limits.

During the war there were no available clerks to be found. Things in the Drug Store were getting tough but Castagna proved equal to the occasion and he says proudly: "I got seven girls to act as clerks and we kept things going. But I shall never forget how those gals would line up at my counter, each with a fistful of prescriptions which had been turned in by customers who were all in a hurry. As I was the only one who could fill them I had my hands full." He attributes his pet ulcer to that experience.

There came a time when the Carmel Drug Store was being enlarged. The workmen were eating lunch, drinking their beer and chatting with each other. They seemed to be quite concerned about what they were doing and were overheard making such remarks as "What are they going to do with all this extra space?" and "Just look at those empty shelves. And nothing to put on them." Those workmen would have probably been more pessimistic if they could have looked forward to this present day. For now the plans are made to extend clear back to Sixth Avenue. If you are coming from the Post Office you may enter on Sixth, follow a little path through a garden and enter the main building to saunter through the store out to Ocean Avenue. Sounds charming. The work will begin soon.

Ralph has never got over the excitement of D-Day. When the news of Germany's surrender reached Carmel it seemed that all the armed forces on the peninsula, plus most of the civilians, were in the store buying the liquid assets to a monstrous celebration. Crowding the aisles. Overflowing to the sidewalk. Talking, shrieking, demanding service. Ralph says: "They completely cleaned us out." I questioned: "What did you do then?" "Oh," he answered, "We locked up and went home to have us our own celebration."

At times during our interview Ralph had hinted darkly that his only distinction was that he was a breaker of the law. I managed finally to worm the truth out of him and here it is: He lighted another cigarette, blew out a cloud of smoke and began: "I may as well tell somebody. Maybe it will relieve my conscience for I've worried about it for a long time. You can believe it or not—he looked around to see if anyone was near—but we have an electric sign lying on the tip-top of the roof. The letters are a foot high and they are made of large electric light bulbs." He looked somewhat relieved at having made his confession but I gasped: "But, Ralph, no one is allowed to have electric signs. U. C. - Monterey College Sponsored Conference On Modern Art, Poetry Music, Dance At Asilomar June 21-22

The creative arts will be discussed and explored by four eminent artists and interested Californians from communities throughout the Northern part of the State at A Weekend With The Arts, June 21-22, at Asilomar. Designed to promote a better understanding, and fuller appreciation of contemporary music, modern painting, Haitian dance, and modern poetry, the weekend conference is offered through the facilities of University of California Extension, The Monterey Bay Area Chapter, University of California Alumni Association, and Monterey Peninsula College.

Presentations by guest artists James Schevill, poet; Ralph Du Casse, painter; Ruth Beckford, primitive dancer, and Robert Erickson, composer, will highlight the weekend program. Discussion in small groups will follow each artist's major presentation, offering participants further opportunity to question the art and the artist.

Arrangements have been made for an optional tour of Carmel Art Galleries and Craft Centers, led by local artists, and members of the art faculty at Monterey Peninsula College.

Composer Robert Erickson is on the faculty of the University of California at Berkeley, and the San Francisco Conservatory of Music. Formerly music director for radio station KPFA, Mr. Erickson won the Mu Sigma award in 1957 for his composition, String Quartet. This work was recently played at the May T. Morrison Music Festival.

Internationally exhibited painter, Ralph Du Casse, husband of former Carmelite Micaela Martinez Du Casse, has received purchase awards from the Guggenheim Museum, New York City, Museum of Modern Art, Sao Paulo, Brazil, University of Illinois, San Francisco Museum of Art, and the Richmond Museum of Fine Arts, Richmond, Virginia. He teaches drawing and painting at the California School of Fine Arts in San Francisco.

Ruth Beckford, who will offer an evening demonstration and performance of Haitian Dance with the assistance of a drummer and male dancer, is a former member of Katherine Dunham's Company.

More recently she was a guest instructor at the Dunham School, a member of the Halprin-Lathrop Dance Group, and guest lecturer in choreography at the Haitian Institute of Dance in Haiti. Miss Beckford heads the modern dance section of the Oakland Recreation Department.

James Schevill is the author of several collections of poems, two biographies, a musical play, and a verse play. His poems, articles, stories, and reviews have been published in numerous magazines. Associate Professor of Humanities at the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland, he is currently preparing an opera libretto for composer Leon Kirchner.

Residence registration which includes all meals, lodging, and gratuities, costs $25. The non-resident fee of $15 covers attendance at all sessions, and participation in discussion groups.

To maintain the highest possible quality of the program, registration is limited and room assignments will be made as enrollments are received. Further information and enrollment forms may be obtained by writing or telephoning Discussion Programs, University Extension, University of California, 2441 Bancroft Way, Berkeley 4, California, or Evening Division, Monterey Peninsula College, Monterey, California.

How many people do you know in SHAREVILLE?

You won't find Shareville on any map of the United States, yet you may know many of its citizens. They may be such people as your banker, your milkman or your children's teacher. The citizens of Shareville are owners of the California Water & Telephone Company. If all the shareholders of California Water & Telephone Company moved into your town over night, you would have to make room for 13,000 new families, for your locally managed company has about that many shareholders.

Like you, these owners of California Water & Telephone Company are seriously concerned with keeping the cost of their water service at fair rates. As owners, they understandably want their company to operate with a profit that will permit a fair return on their investment, because only a fair return will attract the necessary expansion capital.

RECITAL

Saturday Evening, June 14, 1958, 8:30 p.m.

CARMEL CRAFT CENTER
San Carlos, near Ocean

"Difficult to assign any particular orientation to his approach, mechanically shaky, constantly hampered by a lack of technical facility, not ready to concertize."

—Jack Benson, MONTEREY PENINSULA HERALD.

"Stockton, while not exhibiting the brilliancy or technical bravura of some in the concert field, charmed his audience with an innately sensitive musical feeling and artistic phrasing and expression, drawing from his instrument a quality of tone which seemed particularly sympathetic."

—Mary Lindsay-Oliver, CARMEL PINE CONE.

"Stockton, for his part, showed authority and ability in his performance. His tone was equally piquant and pleasant, his mood was earnest."

—Alexander Fried, SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER.

"Mr. Stockton presented much unfamiliar music in a way to make one think it should become more familiar. He coped efficiently with the musical and instrumental requirements of his task."

—Marjory Fisher, SAN FRANCISCO NEWS.

"An extremely sensitive musician and technician."

—R. H. Hagan, SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE.

In his recent recital at Carmel Craft Center, in which Mr. Stockton was enthusiastically received by a completely attentive audience, it has been reported that over half the audience left before the program was over, and probably made so much noise in doing so, that the audience could not clearly hear the numbers listed below. Mr. Stockton has kindly consented to play these numbers again. Otherwise the program will be new.

Music On Peninsula ...

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

The Monterey Peninsula College Music Department presented Capella da Musica, a chamber ensemble from San Francisco composed of Robert Tefft, horn; Willard Tressel, violin; Jeffery Holm, cello; and Elizabeth Bell, viola. The group played some time ago for the Carmel Musical Art Club and was attended Sunday by an appreciative audience, (in the comfortable auditorium) sociably arranged in semi-circle formation, the works of quartet and trio writers of 17th, 18th and 19th centuries is music easy to listen to with its phrase repetitions and logical conclusions. Digging for older compositions today is not only giving the public opportunity to learn more of the earlier and less known composers but can offer a most instructive media for comparison with modern writing. Though their writing is sometimes merely decorative, their mood is a relief in simple intent from the battling, intensity and struggle of much of today's output. For this reason and because the pieces by Handel, Stiche, and the French Sauzay and Champfleury were all played with vigor and intelligent coordination by the group, they were enjoyed.

Opening with Handel's Three Fantasias written while he was organist of Westminster Abbey, in a style that even then had become archaic, the brilliant exercises that compose them thoroughly established the flexibility of the three string performers. A quartet by Stiche, a celebrated Bohemian horn player, evoked a strong recall for the players. Stiche changed his name to Ponto under which he met Beethoven who wrote a Sonata for horn and piano for him. A string trio by Sauzay, popular player and teacher, and another quartet for horn and strings by Champfleury, a celebrated horn player in his day, completed the program which was joyful from the entire group with the brilliant horn playing of Robert Tefft outstanding.

On June 15, Mary Lindsay-Oliver will present a group of singers and one pianist at All Saints' Parish

The Stranger Can Turn To Family Service Agency

Where can the non-resident, faced with a sudden emergency, get help in a strange community? The Family Service Agency has helped many persons and families in such difficulties. Mrs. Edward Luker told the Woman's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer at the monthly meeting on June 3. Mrs. Luker is the Monterey Peninsula representative of that organization.

Services are of many kinds, involving financial aid, psychiatric help, advice in family difficulties, and other aid which welfare officials cannot give to non-residents. A typical case was that of four young children in Los Angeles whose mother put them on a bus to come to Monterey to visit their father who was at work here. After they had started the mother could not reach the father to tell him the time of their arrival. Almost frantic, she finally got in touch with Mrs. Luker and reported the difficulty.

Mrs. Luker phoned the corresponding office in Salinas, asking that someone meet the bus and put the children on the bus for Monterey. Then she secured a room in a motel and engaged a baby-sitter, and then set in motion a search for the father, who, it happened, was not at his job because it had temporarily closed down. By evening he had been found and was reunited with the children and the emergency was resolved.

Many cases require trained psychiatric aid, but the Agency, supported by the Community Chest, had no funds for such service until the local Women's Volunteer Service offered money for such help. Now Mrs. Luker has two psychiatrists for part-time help in such treatment, with very gratifying results. Mrs. Luker reported many interesting cases showing the service that no other organization is able to give.

The Auxiliary meeting, conducted by the president, Mrs. John R. Christie, followed a potluck luncheon in the social room of the church. Miss Zeala Wright opened the day's program with two delightful solos, with Mrs. C. A. Broadus as accompanist. Mrs. Kenneth Kightly was program chairman.

Hall, the program of which will be given out next week. It will be entirely open to the public.

BEYOND HUMAN KNOWLEDGE

(The mysterious forces in and around us, an approach to supernatural phenomena, purpose and future of our life).

the following poems were written by freshmen students at Carmel High School.

NEW DAY

Like a silken veil the morning mists
Hang in the valley awaiting the sun,
The sun whose glorious golden hand,
Will turn the dew drops to diamonds rare,
Inspire the lark's sweet silver song,
Whose magic will fill the morning air,
The woodthrush sings of the beauty he sees,
And throws his song on the morning breeze,
He sings of the gurgling, bubbling brook,
As it dances over the pebbles and rocks,
He sings of the lupin and sweet wild rose,
Of the new soft grass in the meadow, green
That lies like a velvet carpet spread.
He sings of this new, carefree morning,
He sings of a bright new day.

—BY BARBARA COOKE.

ENGLISH ASSIGNMENT

"Write a poem," he says to me,
"Write it quick and easily;"
I'll try to write a poem now—
But how?

TO AN ENGLISH TEACHER

If you could see inside my mind,
Inside my heart, inside my hide,
You could not grade me so unkind—
You'd know I tried!

If you could know the hours I spend
With books propped open by my side,
Only my homework to attend—
You'd know I tried!

If you could realize my curse,
If you could hear the way I sighed,
You might know I'm dumb or worse, but—
You'd know I tried!

—BY MIDGE ENSLEY.

LIFE

In that ghostly, flagrant darkness
There shone through the eerie omnipresent shadows,
A flame that was to guide me through the years.
Through a war which took my comrades
Through a plague which seized my loved ones,
Through a flood which swamped my hopes
Was that glowing light which brought
Me to this day of judgment
When I may reach the goal of all mankind.

—BY BRUCE BENNETT.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

Well known for his historical fiction, Lawrence Schoonover has a new one just out entitled The Revolutionary. It is based upon the life of John Paul Jones and follows him from his birth in Scotland until his death in France which was in his forty-sixth year. There was a man who packed a long lifetime of living adventure into a mere forty six years! Remember, the book is fiction and not biography.

Another fine example of historical fiction is Moses, Prince of Egypt, by Howard Fast. Fast handles the story in a contemporary manner, so that Moses becomes to the reader a living person rather than a patriarch. In the end of the book Moses is a young man about to go into the wilderness of Sinai to escape the wrath of Ramses. It almost seems as if Howard Fast had in mind the writing of a sequel, and if so, the reading public would certainly welcome such a book, for Moses, Prince of Egypt, is excellent reading.

We have John Gunther's Inside Russia Today. Mr. Gunther has made four visits to Russia. In the Kirkus review it is said that a bold approach and an honest answer are given such questions as who runs Russia today, is the New Look genuine, and is peaceful co-operation possible. The review goes on "And Gunther in stressing the dangers of losing the peace, urges the steps that Washington should take — and the vital importance in a new viewpoint and deepening understanding on the part of the American public."

There are two new mysteries this week. One is by Kendrick and is another of his stories about the blind detective Captain Duncan Maclain. The other is by Simonon and is one of his well known Inspector Maigret stories. The Maclain one is entitled Clear and Present Danger. The Maigret is entitled None of Maigret's Business. Both are entertaining and interest holding mysteries.

A new book on sports cars was written by John Stanford, and although he is English, and the emphasis is on foreign cars, there is also much material on American sports cars. The title is The Sports Car; Development and Design.

In 1956 an expedition of eleven young Frenchmen set out to explore certain subterranean canyons which eventually led them to a place nearly four thousand feet below the surface of the earth. The book about their adventure is called One Thousand Metres Down and it was written by Jean Cadoux.

There are many more new books this week, including one on sculpture by Herbert Read and one on skin and scuba diving by the Conference for National Cooperation in Aquatics. Each chapter of the latter book was written by a national authority on the particular subject covered, and the book is supposed to contain all the information any skin diver needs to know. Just what all that covers, we never know, but perhaps you would. Anyway, we hope it does it.

Major W. J. Hairs

News of the death of Major W. J. Hairs on May 18 in Kansas City, Missouri, reached Carmel friends this week. Over 25 years ago Major Hairs came to live in Carmel and founded Merle's Treasure Chest on Ocean Avenue. He sold the gift shop ten years ago, after the death of his brother, when he found he must go to Melbourne, Australia to operate the import business which his brother left.

Major Hairs was born in Kent, England, on July 30, 1877. He spent some 30 years in the British Army and served in both the Boer War and World War I. He wrote several books about his African experiences and two more are to be published soon.

His wife, Nan MacIntosh Hairs,

Melinda And Bob Married

Melinda Gene Scheffer and Robert Keene Douglas were married on Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in All Saints' Episcopal Church by the Reverend Kenneth L. Sandercock.

The altar was decorated with pink and white flowers, and tiny nosegays, placed at the pew ends, adorned the center aisle of the church. The flowers were arranged by Miss Kay Rodgers and Mrs. Sidney L. Williams, and came from Mrs. Williams' garden. Robert M. Forbes, church organist, and Mrs. Forbes gave the music, played before and after the ceremony, as a present to the bride and groom.

Eugene R. Scheffer gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and pleated tulle. The fitted lace bodice of the dress had a scoop neckline and long sleeves, ending in points at the wrist, and was embroidered with pearls and iridescent sequins. From the bodice fell the billowing skirt of alternate tiers of Chantilly lace and pleated tulle. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a small crown of Chantilly lace and seed pearls. She carried a cross arrangement of white baby roses and for "something old" wore her great-grandmother's cameo brooch.

Judith Rigsby, a Carmel school friend, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Lois Lawton and Alice Carr, Phi Mu sorority sisters of the bride at San Jose State College. They were dressed alike in pale pink silk chiffon ballerina length gowns with bodice lines defined by appliqued pink velvet flowers. Streamers of velvet ribbon fell from bows beneath the bloused backs of their bodices to the hemlines of their full skirts and nose veils trimmed their tiny pink velvet caps. The maid of honor carried a bouquet of white carnations and the bridesmaids pink carnations.

John McCormack was best man for the groom and ushers were Kevin Salmon and Michael Clark, fraternity brothers of the groom at San Jose State College, the bride's brother, Fritz Scheffer, and the groom's brother Gordon Douglas.

Mrs. Scheffer attended her daughter's wedding wearing a blue-grey satin dress and redingote, matching shoes and gloves, a small iridescent sequin hat, and a pale pink orchid corsage.

Mrs. R. P. Douglas, the groom's mother, was dressed in a blue silk crepe gown with matching shoes, a large natural straw hat trimmed with violets and carried a muff covered with violets.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the Carmel Woman's Club decorated by the groom's mother. The three-tiered cake was placed on a table in front of a screen massed with stock, pink carnations and baby breath placed in hanging pots. A large wreath of gilded pine cones hung over the fireplace and gilded and plain pine cones, arranged with baby pink roses, in white bird cages were suspended about the room.

When the bride left with the groom for a honeymoon in San Francisco she changed to a beige linen sheath dress and duster, matching shoes and bag, a natural straw cloche hat, and a green orchid corsage.

This week the groom is completing business administration courses at San Jose State College and the bride is practice teaching in the third grade at River School. They both graduate from San Jose State College on June 13, then plan to spend the summer in Carmel, and next fall leave on a trip to Europe. Both the bride and groom are graduates of the Carmel schools and Monterey Peninsula College. The bride was a member of the Pine Cone bindery staff for seven years during the time she attended local schools.

Judy And Jack Wed Yesterday

Judith Rigsby became the bride of John Paul McCormack yesterday evening at 7:00 o'clock in a ceremony performed by Father John McSweeney in the Chapel of Carmel Mission. Vases of white stock were used to decorate the chancel for the wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rigsby of New York and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. H. Watson of Carmel. As her father was unable to come West for her marriage, Judy was given away by her grandfather, Mr. Watson.

She wore a ballerina length dress with a round-necked, short-sleeved bodice of white lace which extended in princess style into a full white organdy over taffeta skirt. Three bows of lace and organdy were spaced down the back of the bodice. Her shoulder length tulle veil was held in place by a small lace cap trimmed with seed pearls and she carried a nosegay bouquet of baby pink rosebuds, arranged with fleur d'amour.

Mrs. Robert K. Douglas (Melinda Scheffer) was her attendant wearing a beige linen sheath dress, styled with three bands of beige lace; and a small coffee-colored velvet hat. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of yellow rosebuds.

Best men for the groom were Robert K. Douglas and Robert Michela.

A reception for family members and the wedding party was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCormack. After the bride and groom had cut their three-tiered wedding cake, adorned with white baby rosebuds, they left for a honeymoon in San Francisco.

They will spend the summer at Lake Tahoe. In the fall the groom, who graduates from the University of San Francisco this week as a history major, will take secondary teaching credential courses at the College of the Pacific. Fathers thinking about?" He wiped the sweat from his forehead: "You see they don't know anything about it. It's been well hidden and the secret kept. But I don't think they'd be too hard on me though for IT HASN'T BEEN LIGHTED FOR OVER TWENTY YEARS." Then a boyish grin illuminated his face. He said: "Do you know something? All I have to do is push a button and WHEW ! ! ! ! ! Then he sighed. "How it's tantalized me all these years!"

I was thinking aloud: "Maybe sometime when we have a big celebration. A circus. A fair. Something absolutely crazy. Then maybe . . ."

He spoke wistfully: "Yes—maybe. Wouldn't it be wonderful? Just once!"

Lillian Bonham

Mrs. Lillian May Bonham, widow of former Mayor Ross E. Bonham, died on Tuesday evening in a local rest home where she had been a patient since last August.

Mrs. Bonham was born in Galesburg, Illinois, in 1878. In 1897 she married her childhood sweetheart, Ross Bonham in Galesburg. Soon after her marriage Mrs. Bonham went with her husband to Idaho, travelling by train and stage, to a tract of government owned land which had been opened for settlement. She and her husband filed on a 160 acre claim, and, with other pioneer settlers, founded the town of Twin Falls. Mrs. Bonham possessed a fine voice and sang at functions of the growing town such as the laying out of the town site and the opening of each new business.

In 1923 Mrs. Bonham's health caused her and her husband to leave Twin Falls and come to the Monterey Peninsula. They settled in Carmel where Mr. Bonham became owner of a hardware store, Bonham's Incorporated, on Ocean Avenue. Mrs. Bonham assisted her husband in operating the business until they sold it in 1947. The business is now known as Village Hardware.

Mrs. Bonham and her husband were active in local musical and theatrical groups. Mr. Bonham served two terms as Mayor of Carmel starting in 1928. Mrs. Bonham was a member of Monterey Chapter 239, Order of the Eastern Star, and Golden Rule Shrine 43 of the Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem. In 1947 she and Mr. Bonham celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a party attended by a host of local friends.

After the store was sold, Mrs. Bonham travelled extensively with her husband in this country and visited Hawaii. Mr. Bonham died in 1954.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in Paul Mortuary Chapel. They were conducted by the Monterey Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star. Honorary pallbearers were James Bannerman, Clyde Grover, Charles Rubin, John Flaws, B. F. Schulte, Eldridge McCormack, C. Haskell Warren and Oliver Watson. Private inurnment followed in El Carmelo Cemetery.

ry Rose. He saw that warrants issued by the city clerk balanced with the treasury account. Although he did not sign warrants he could at any time, on his own, write a check "for every red cent the city owned." He was bonded and received a monthly salary of $65.00.

Though city treasurer is an elective office, the council will have to fill Mr. Hilbert's place by appointment, since there are still two years remaining of his term.

He now is installing a special display cabinet for that purpose. Danny Garcia already has on view an unusual array of succulent plants, some mounted in driftwood, and patio planters. All the exhibits are for sale.

CHURCHESCHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The supremacy of God, Spirit will be set forth at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "God the Only Cause and Creator" will include the following from Psalms (33:6): "By the word of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (170:22): "Spiritual causation is the one question to be considered, for more than all others spiritual causation relates to human progress. The age seems ready to approach this subject, to ponder somewhat the supremacy of Spirit, and at least to touch the hem of Truth's garment."

The Golden Text is Psalms (145:10,11): "All thy works shall praise thee, O Lord; and thy saints shall bless thee. They shall speak of the glory of thy kingdom, and talk of thy power."

catcher-outfielder, reports to the Air Academy at Denver on June 16th to begin officer training . . . Paul Artellan's Carmel Merchants got off to a rough start in the Pacific Grove Softball League on Tuesday night, losing an 8-0 decision to Rasmussen & Moody and also losing catcher Bill Conlan to a pair of flying spikes. Bill was cut up on a close play at home and had to retire to the pits for remainder of the game . . . Carmel's Babe Ruth League team played 500 baseball over the weekend losing the opener to Baldwin Pianos but coming back on Saturday to clip the Monterey Labor Council for win number one in Babe Ruth League competition. The win over the Labor Council was posted at Carmel High's new diamond where Carmel teams seem to rise to winning heights. Carmel High's varsity baseball squad has won nine straight at the home diamond . . . Little League graduate Forrest Cornwall has continued his winning ways since moving up to the Babe Ruth League. Cornwall picked up the win over Monterey's Labor Council and appears headed for a fine season in the new league . . . Carmel High's sophomore shortstop, Ronnie Faia, has created quite a stir around the CCAL with his fantastic 456 batting average over a full season's play. The little speedster not only led the league in batting but was also classified as one of the best glovemen in the league. Ron only struck out twice during the season and was at bat more than any other player in the league . . . Professional scouts have been getting wind of the fine pitching performances flitted out by Tim O'Shea and are asking for some of the details which interest the baseball talent hunters. Tim has improved tremendously during the past season and is rated the best pitching prospect in either the A or B division of the Coast Counties Athletic League.

New Owner, Same Old Lot, Start Weary Search For Permit

If all the man-hours—planning commission, city council, superior court—consumed by the Carmel lot that nobody can build on were converted into front footage and laid end to end adjacent to the lot in question, somebody could build on it.

Last night the city council set July 9, 8:30 o'clock for a public hearing on Irma Barnes' appeal from the planning commission's "no" of May 23. This is the second round for the lot but the first for Miss Barnes.

The trouble started in 1953 when John Walsh bought a house on a lot and a half (60 feet) building site on the east side of San Carlos Street between Twelfth and Thirteenth, sold the house and the 20 feet on which it stood, and applied to Building Inspector Floyd Adams for a permit to construct a house on the remaining 40 feet. Mr. Adams refused the permit.

According to city ordinance, you cannot separate a portion from a building site so as to leave a site less than legal size which is 40 feet minimum. The 20 feet containing the house, separated from its adjacent 40 feet, would be less than legal size. The entire 60 feet had been designated as a building site when the building permit for the house had been obtained. Mr. Walsh tried to buy back the house and 20 feet from the party to whom he had sold them. When the owner refused to sell, Mr. Walsh fought it out in Superior Court in Salinas, and lost. Judge Anthony Brazil ruled that the owner did not have to sell the house and 20 feet of land back to Mr. Walsh. Mr. Walsh went to the planning commission for a variance so he could build on the 40 feet he hadn't sold. The planning commission said no, they couldn't create a dangerous precedent. He appealed to the council and the council said the same thing.

Several months ago Mr. Walsh sold the 40 feet to Irma Barnes. She went to Floyd Adams for a building permit and he said no. She went to the planning commission and they said no. Last night she appealed to the council and they set a public hearing, which is automatic in such an appeal.

Truncated Plan, Chain Stores, Skid Row, Etc.

Ocean Avenue Hearstone location (same owners). The Ocean Avenue Hearstone license will be transferred to the new Hearstone at Devendorf Plaza. Mayor Chitwood said it meant an additional on-sale liquor license in Carmel and couldn't the council protest on density control, like in San Francisco? Mr. Morse said that applied to skid row conditions and it is doubtful that the ABC board would regard Ocean Avenue as a second Skid Row. Council decided to talk it over some more when they meet in closed session June 19, 8:00 o'clock to study salary schedule.

Gilbert Boyer, chairman of the steering committee for an arts commission, reported that one meeting of interested persons had been held and a number of valuable ideas presented, but he wished to hold another meeting before presenting the council with a definite recommendation.

A conflict over Forest Theatre dates for a production of Paint Your Wagon by the Wharf Theatre Directors and Robinson Jeffers' Cretan Women by the Village Players was referred to a committee of James Buffington, Everett May and Gunnar Norberg before tempers in the audience got out of hand. The committee has power to act.

lems, and produce little or no revenue for the town. He wanted to know if they could be made to buy a car-tab for $1.00 or $5.00 even.

City Attorney John Morse thought not, and Police Chief Clyde Kjaumann and City Clerk Larry Rose looked distressed at the idea of enforcing and administering such a project.

Mr. Norberg also suggested that the token $1.00 a year the school district and hospital pays the city for fire protection is not enough. Fire Chief Bob Smith is going to ask for another paid fireman, Mr. Norberg said, and the hospital and school district should help pay for him.

Councilman James Buffington said he pays school district taxes as well as city taxes as does everybody in the city, and he didn't fancy Gunnar's idea. Somebody asked Chief Smith how many fire calls he'd had from the schools, and he confessed that he has had none. Mayor Chitwood suggested that Chief Smith "make a study" of Mr. Norberg's suggestion, and the atmosphere around the council table conveyed that if Mr. Smith makes his study an extended project, continuing it for, say, about 10 years, that will be just fine with everybody but Mr. Norberg.

AN INVITATION FOR YOU!

Date: SUNDAY, JUNE 8, 1958

Place: Turn right at John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch Road opposite Valley Lodge, Carmel Valley

Time: ALL SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

Remarks:

This home is very likely to be the home you always wanted to build. Just come and inspect a job well done. Your furnishings will blend beautifully, the hominess and texture of Napa Split Veneer Brick, oak floors and redwood interior are handsomely put together.

The kitchen is a delight all by itself, with an adorable built-in breakfast nook, including storage space underneath. There are heaps of cabinets, outlets galore and hook-up for laundry facilities, work space to make the preparing of food fun once more. Dad will probably notice the difference. Mom will apply her culinary art again.
